ACTIVITIES

I am a self-taught web developer that enjoys learning and constant growth. Over the course of my learning I have created more than 30 repositories on github and also obtained Digital Marketing certification from Google. I have been working with the web at a really young age and by far it has been the most fulfilling thing to do for me. I have managed to put various blogsites together with WordPress and also Shopify e-commerce stores, but to build a web page from absolutely nothing has been fascinating. I am looking to keep improving and learn the latest and best technology out there.
